As Chief Operating Officer at Miller Thomson, David leads the firm's operational and administrative teams, focusing on operational excellence and the execution of strategic plans. With a wealth of experience as a former Chief Client Officer at a global law firm and as General Counsel at the Hudson's Bay Company (HBC), David brings a unique blend of expertise to firm management and leadership.

David's background includes leading client development and strategic initiatives as well as managing corporate governance matters at the highest levels. His seven years of practice at a corporate law firm, coupled with the time spent in leadership roles at HBC and the Canadian office of a global law firm, provide him with a wealth of experience to draw on in helping to lead Miller Thomson.

David completed his education at McGill University, where he received his Bachelor of Arts in 1992 and Bachelor of Civil Law in 1998.
