Kesh is an associate in Miller Thomson's Real Estate Group and Corporate Health Group based in Toronto.

Kesh has experience assisting clients on various real estate transactions, including leasing, property acquisitions, and development projects. She also provides clients with guidance on corporate governance, restructuring, regulatory compliance, and strategic transactions, while addressing the legal needs unique to healthcare providers and organizations.

Prior to becoming a lawyer, Kesh worked with one of Ontario's largest municipalities in their corporate Health Services and Long-Term Care Home sector and played a key role in developing Ontario's first purpose-built long-term care home inspired by the Butterfly Model. Kesh is committed to delivering personalized legal services and remains dedicated to supporting her clients' success and delivering tailored legal solutions to her clients.
