Rick Del Vecchio is a passionate legal professional focusing on construction and commercial litigation, with a particular interest in construction-related claims, real estate disputes, debt-recovery, and contractual issues.

He guides clients through construction liens, breach of contract, warranty disputes, negligence claims, and more, handling all aspects from traditional litigation to settlement negotiations and arbitrations. Rick is known for his deep experience across various courts and has served in various leadership roles for Miller Thomson's Construction Litigation practice group.

Rick has a vast portfolio of publications and presentations, delving into crucial legal topics and constantly contributing valuable insights to the legal community, making him a go-to resource for construction law advice and representation. Outside of the courtroom, he has been deeply involved with the Vaughan YMCA as a board member.

Rick is actively involved with organizations like the Italian Chamber of Commerce of Ontario, Ontario Bar Association, and The Advocates' Society. He has been recognized in prestigious publications such as Benchmark Canada and The Canadian Legal Lexpert Directory, showcasing his dedication and excellence in the legal field.
