BAR ADMISSION

British Columbia, 2021

Alberta, 1992

EDUCATION

- LL.B., University of Alberta, 1991
- B.A., (English and history), University of Alberta, 1988

With over 30 years of experience, Tracey M. Bailey, KC, advises public and private health system and health professional clients on a wide range of health law matters, with a particular focus on regulatory, strategic and risk management advice, as well as strategic advice related to government relations in the health area. With a background in private and public practice, Tracey brings practical insight to her work with clients, helping them navigate Canada's intricate health regulatory landscape. Focusing in areas such as health system governance, patient safety, and health service delivery, Tracey tailors her approach to meet your goals effectively.

Tracey has accumulated more than 445 invited lectures over the course of her career, including notable talks on regulation in a post-pandemic world and digital health ethics, demonstrating her passion for sharing knowledge. Outside the office, she has also been involved in the community with a variety of initiatives, serving on the boards of a number of organizations. Tracey's broad range of knowledge and presentation experience make her the perfect choice to guide you through the complexities of health law with ease.

Tracey's professional accolades speak for themselves. Called to the bar in both Alberta and British Columbia, her long-standing, active involvement with the Canadian Bar Association's National Health Law Section showcases her dedication to the field. Additionally, Tracey's role as an Adjunct Professor in the University of Alberta's Faculty of Medicine ensures she stays at the forefront of legal and professional education.
